What do the three result panels evaluate?

A/B ask whether binding-trained features identify regulatory annotations. C asks whether those features predict experimentally derived functional sensitivity.
Source heads are test-selected (exploratory); AM has no target fitting or selection. Unannotated AM positions are not assigned negative labels. No causal mechanism is inferred.